

Company Appoints Resident Assistant Vice-President

S. Vaughan Andrews, Torrance area man, has been appointed assistant vice president, administration, and will assume duties as director of administration for the company's San Bernardino Operations, Dr. Ivan A. Getting, president, announced today.

Andrews joins Walter B. Brewer, Jr., who was elected a vice president of Aerospace Corporation in June, assigned to the company's San Bernardino Operations in charge of corporate programs there in support of the Ballistic Systems Division of the Air Force Systems Command.

SERVES GOVERNMENT
Aerospace Corporation, organized in the public interest, serves the U.S. Government — principally the Air Force — in the scientific engineering planning, general systems engineering, and technical direction of space and advanced ballistic missile programs.

Activities for which Andrews will be responsible at San Bernardino will include finance and control, contract administration, industrial relations, and administrative support services. In addition to his duties there, he will continue to function as a member of the corporate staff in El Segundo and, specifically, as chairman of the corporate Retirement Committee.

RELATIONS DIRECTOR
Since joining the corporation in November 1960, Andrews had been director of industrial relations. Prior to joining Aerospace Corporation, he was division personnel manager at Hughes Aircraft Company in El Segundo, Calif.

From 1955 until 1960, Andrews was employed by the Raytheon Company at Waltham, Mass. and Bristol, Tenn. He was appointed industrial relations director for Raytheon's Missile Systems Division at Waltham in 1958.

Prior to his association with Raytheon, Andrews served as assistant director of personnel for CBS-Hydrion, a Division of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Born in Salem, Massachusetts, Oct. 28, 1925, Andrews earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in industrial relations from Boston University in 1950. He has been a guest lecturer at numerous colleges and universities across the country on industrial relations and labor law, and has just concluded conducting a course in labor management at Los Angeles Harbor College, Wilmington.

ORGANIZATIONS
He is a member of the American Arbitration Association, the Los Angeles chapter of the Personnel and Industrial Relations Association and the El Segundo Chamber of Commerce.

Andrews, his wife and three children have been residing at South Shores in the Palos Verdes Peninsula. They expect to move to the San Bernardino area late this fall.

Space Trip for Southland Set at Griffith Observatory

"A Trip to the Moon and Saturn," the current spectacular at Griffith Park Observatory's planetarium theater, will wind up its 1962 summer run on Sunday, Sept. 9, it was reported recently by the Los Angeles City Recreation and Park Department.

The show, which has attracted hundreds of Southlanders throughout the summer, is highlighted by simulated landings on the moon and Titan, Saturn's largest satellite, according to Dr. Clarence H. Clemmshaw, the observatory's director.

Chesley Bonestell, famous painter of astronomical objects, has painted realistic scenes of the moon and Titan's landscapes, which are reproduced on the facility's 75-foot domed ceiling.

Beginning Tuesday, Sept. 11, a new show, "Our Space Ship, the Earth," will bow in at the municipal scientific center. It will deal with motions of the earth and will feature explanations of the seasons of the year.

Dr. Clemmshaw reminded Southlanders that the observatory will be closed on Mondays beginning Sept. 10, and said that the fall, winter and spring schedule of shows will be announced next week.

"A Trip to the Moon and Saturn" will be offered through Sept. 9 at 3, 8 and 9:15 p.m., Monday through Sunday, with extra matinees slated at 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. Saturdays, Sundays and next Monday, Labor Day.

GARDEN SERENITY
A garden will have a more serene atmosphere if the emphasis is put on green plants. Fencing and screen should be as natural looking as possible, designed in weathered or wood stained western red cedar.

LAHC to Hold Craft Classes

Crafts workshop, art 50 and 51, is being offered in the evening division of Harbor College in the fall semester starting Sept. 17.

The class will be held Thursday nights from 6:30 to 9:30. The beginning section will include work in paper materials such as papier mache', paper sculpture, torn paper and cardboard structures, as well as in plaster and wood carving, including vermiculite, sand, plasticine modeling, balsa wood and pine.

The advanced section will work with materials such as cloth and yarn in the stables, paper shaping and forming as well as with new and traditional media in the production of mosaics.

James E. Burk, instructor for the crafts workshops class, has exhibited his art work in various Southern California galleries. His students have won many state and national art competitions. He holds a master's degree in fine arts from the University of Southern California where he concentrated in the field of mosaics.

Both these classes are acceptable for credit at Long Beach State College and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Applications are now being accepted for early registration. Last date to file an application for registration is Sept. 7. Application forms may be obtained at the admissions office of the college.

'Laziness Most Devastating' Claims Sightless Humorist

"Laziness is a more devastating handicap than blindness," declared Jack Whiffen of Braille Institute. He was guest speaker at the South Torrance Lions Club Aug. 8.

His subject, "Six Roads to Happiness," explained the six free services provided for the blind by Braille Institute.

According to Whiffen, "We have a print shop that never uses ink, a library that never uses reading lights, an educational department that does not own a blackboard, and a recreation department that doesn't own a ball or a boxing glove. But all of this does not prevent our rehabilitation department from functioning satisfactorily."

Whiffen is a partially sighted writer, poet and humorist and, he insists, "square dancer." He graduated from the Illinois School for the Blind, attended the University of Illinois, studied journalism at the University of Rochester (New York) and attended classes in Creative Writing at UCLA.

He has taught school, been a traveling salesman and trained racing dogs. He is best known as the author of "Too True," a volume of humorous and sentimental verse that has enjoyed a wide circulation.

Although primarily a humorist, Whiffen has collaborated with Jane Clausen, a selling author and a Braille Institute volunteer, to write an adventure novel. They are now working on their second book. Mrs. Clausen accompanies Whiffen on his speaking engagements.

The Institute, which is supported by contributions and bequests in wills, also has a youth program which includes sponsorship of a Boy Scout and Cub Scout Troop and a program for emotionally-disturbed blind children.

SNEAD PREDICTIONS
"Norm Snead this season will be one of the great quarterbacks of the NFL, and our team as a whole will be ready to move."

This was the to-the-point statement of Washington head coach Bill McPeak upon his arrival this week in Los Angeles to setup the Redskin camp at Occidental, and prepare for the traditional charity opener against the Los Angeles Rams at the Coliseum Aug. 11.
